Hi there! My name is Dey Dos and I'm a freelancer in the whole sense of the word. I freely choose to engage in a diverse set of very exciting projects, and when my part is done I always move on to the next big thing that will keep me creating and most importantly: HAPPY! - You can find more about me in my website.

I will define my current life style as eternal and awesome holidays, of the type worth remembering! I do what I love to do (from facilitating and public speaking to coaching and brand design), I constantly travel to exciting destinations and, in each one of these places, I meet new people with whom I share my discoveries and from whom I learn new perspectives about life. And that's exactly what I want to bring to you with this book: a simple - yet powerful - way to design a life style that makes you happy and keeps you excited!

More than a book, I want it to be a guide; not with instructions, but full of exercises. A book not only to read but to write in, like a journal! I envision the book with spaces for you to write your discoveries, to track your progress and to map your new path! A guide for you to experiment a set of different proposals I'm drafting based on my experiences; a lot of stories that I have compiled from my trips to 76 countries and my 10 years of experience as a Life Coach. All in all, I want the book to be a companion for you in your quest to design the life style that matches that of your dreams!

Part travelogue, I will need to continue traveling throughout the fruit's native range—from Florida to Ontario; from the Atlantic to Nebraska—during a very short season when the fruit is ripe. Your support will enable me to visit orchards in North Carolina and Indiana, to forage in the woods of West Virginia and Kentucky. Along the way, I will even seek to rescue a lost cultivar

First ever Peace, Love, and Low Carb Cookbook... Making low-carb a lifestyle, not a life sentence...

Launched: Jul 12, 2012
Funding ended: Aug 21, 2012

First ever PEACE, LOVE, AND LOW CARB Cookbook!: I keep getting asked the question "When are you going to put out your own cookbook?" I have always wanted to take this next step with my passion for recipe creation, food porn photography, and cooking. Self-publishing is not a cheap venture. So... I am asking for your help to get this project off the ground. I have been told that what sets my blog apart from the rest is my step-by-step photographs of the recipes. I want to put out a cookbook that reflects just that. Most of the cookbooks out there do not contain pictures. This leaves the novice cook

A modern picture book about where babies come that it fits for every kind of family and every kind of kid.

Launched: Feb 15, 2012
Funding ended: Mar 16, 2012

PROJECT FUNDING UPDATE:

We did it!

Thank you so much to our 1953 backers. In the final day we surpassed our goal of pre-selling 2,000 copies (in the end it was 2029 hard cover books).

You can still check out the project here, but if you missed the Kickstarter campaign and want information about ordering a copy of What Makes a Baby when it's published, head over to www.what-makes-a-baby.com. And thanks!

About This Project:

What Makes a Baby is my response to the fact that books about where babies come from leave many of us out. They tell a nice story (mommy + daddy + intercourse = you!) but the truth is that more and more of us are acknowledging the help we get to bring children into our lives. That help might be a doctor, fertility clinic, adoption or foster agency; it might be a turkey baster and a friend; it might be a sperm donor or a surrogate. What Makes a Baby helps parents tell children a story about where they came from that isn't just true for them, but true for everyone.

Crafted for children roughly from pre-school to 8-years-old, What Makes a Baby is written and illustrated to include all kinds of kids, all kinds of adults, and all kinds of families - regardless of how many people were involved, what the orientation, gender identity, or other make up of the family is, or how it came to be that way. It's a social justice approach to sex education. Like all picture books, it's meant to be read to a child and gives the adult reader the opportunity to fill in as much detail as they would like.

Written by a certified sexuality educator, Cory Silverberg, and illustrated by
